Canada is an important partner in the global effort to help children in the developing world beat the odds against six deadly, but preventable, diseases. Today, 80 per cent of children under the age of one are protected against measles, polio, tuberculosis, tetanus, whooping cough and diphtheria – compared to only five per cent 20 years ago.

That translates into more than three million young lives saved each year. Despite these encouraging statistics, nearly two million children a year still die for lack of immunization. The odds can be beaten with your help.

Postcolonialism and Its Discontents

The January 1995 number of ARIEL focusses on postcolonialism and its discontents. We welcome articles which investigate the construction, the politics, and the institutionalization of postcolonial criticism.

Co-editors of this issue are Pamela McCallum (University of Calgary), Stephen Slemon (University of Alberta), and Aruna Srivastava (University of Calgary). Submissions should reach ARIEL by 1 September 1994.

Contemporary North American Native Writings

Volume 25, Number 1 (January 1994)

This special issue, co-edited by Joseph Bruchac and Jeanne Perreault, features an interview with Lee Maracle and includes articles on Beatrice Culleton, Leslie Marmon Silko, Louise Erdich, and Mary TallMountain, and poems by E. K. Caldwell, Emma LaRocque, and Duane Niatum.

The cost of this issue is $12.00 (or $6.00 if combined with a one-year subscription beginning in 1995).
