

THE SOUTHERN REVIEW

July 1971

Wallace Stevens and the Romantic Heritage

Holly Stevens: Reminiscences of My Father

Helen Vendler: Wallace Stevens — The True and False Sublime

Jan Peterson: Wallace Stevens and William James

Grosvenor Powell: Of Heroes and Nobility — Man as Metaphor in Wallace Stevens

James McMichael: The Wallace Steven Vulgates

Doris Eder: Wallace Stevens — The War Between Mind and Eye

Kenneth Fields: Wallace Stevens and the 1890s

George Lensing: Wallace Stevens and the State of Winter Simplicity

Also

René Wellek: R. P. Blackmur Re-Examined

Eliseo Vivas: Tragedy and the Broader Consciousness

And

STORIES

POEMS

REVIEWS

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Business Manager

The Southern Review

Drawer D, University Station

Baton Rouge, La. 70803

1 year

$5.00

2 years

$9.00

3 years

$13.00

Beginning with this issue/the next issue, I wish to enter my subscription to
The Southern Review for: 1 year 2 years 3 years

Name: _____

Address: _____

The Author of Waverley

A Critical Study of Walter Scott

D. D. Devlin

In this lucid and searching study of Walter Scott the author begins by discussing Scott's critical essays on earlier writers of fiction for the light they throw on his aims and practice as a novelist. He follows this with a consideration of Scott's historicism, and an attempt to answer the question 'What did history mean to Scott?' He then illustrates his findings in a detailed consideration of five of the major novels, showing how their structure is the logical outcome of Scott's view of history, and emphasizing in a new and illuminating way, the central role of the great comic characters. 'The particular value of this fascinating essay lies in the realization and the presentation of the greatness of Scott's comic creation, and of his structural craftsmanship.'—The Scotsman.

£2.95

Macmillan

Sir Walter Scott

the formative years

Arthur Melville Clark

In addition to its central theme of Scott's early life and education, this book covers many important topics: convincing evidence that the accepted date of Scott's birth is incorrect; his Jacobite leanings and religious convictions; and his amazing memory which enabled him to echo childhood events in later life.

13 plates

322 pp

£2.50

WILLIAM BLACKWOOD

Under Which King?

A Study of the Scottish Waverley Novels

Robert C. Gordon

'... a rewarding handbook for admirers... penetrates one by one, the rich complexity of the novels...'

The Edinburgh Tattler

186 pages hardback £2.10

Scott's Mind and Art

Edited by A. Norman Jeffares

Explores Scott's attitude to the processes of history, his idea of justice, his deployment of the supernatural, his use of language, and his ability to recreate, and does so in an interesting and constructive fashion.

280 pages hardback £2.40

Scott

Thomas Crawford

This vigorous and tough-minded little book should do much to redirect attention to both the poems and novels of Sir Walter Scott.

128 pages paperback 50p

A Midsummer Eve's Dream

Variations on a theme by William Dunbar

A. D. Hope

What kind of people lived in Scotland in the Middle Ages? The author has looked into the background of fifteenth-century Scottish poet, William Dunbar's The Tretis of the Tua Mariit Wemen and the Wedo and has come up with some surprising answers to this question. This book is a tapestry of folklore, history, philosophy and literature which is marvellously entertaining.

344 pages hardback £3.50

Oliver & Boyd

Tweeddale Court 14 High Street Edinburgh

Some recent books of interest from Routledge & Kegan Paul

68 Carter Lane, London EC4V 5EL

Scott: The Critical Heritage

EDITED BY JOHN O. HAYDEN 'A useful compilation of writings on Scott in the nineteenth century (including) Coleridge . . . Maria Edgeworth . . . the North American Review. We hear what Goethe, Balzac, Stendhal had to say, Cardinal Newman holds Scott responsible for the Oxford Movement, Mark Twain for the American Civil War. Professor Hayden has cast his net wide and his collection is full of interest.'—JANET ADAM SMITH, The Times. £5

Shakespeare, Spenser, Donne

FRANK KERMODE This book represents 'one man's persistent effort to understand English poetry in its greatest years'. Professor Kermode discusses some of the central works and areas of literature in this great period, including essays on Shakespeare, Spenser and Donne. The essays are prefaced by a statement of the critic's own approach. £1.50

The Working Classes in Victorian Fiction

P. J. KEATING Examines the presentation of the urban and industrial working classes in Victorian fiction. Dr Keating considers the types of working men and women who are portrayed, their environments, the use of phonetics to indicate working-class voices. He draws on a wide range of major and minor fiction and directs new light on writers such as Dickens, Gissing, Kipling. 8 pp. plates £3.50

Working Class Stories of the 1890s

EDITED BY P. J. KEATING This is a collection of stories about the East End of London in the 1890s and includes tales by Kipling, Morrison, Gissing. These stories illustrate the attempt by many late Victorian writers to break with Dickensian models and describe working-class life with more realism and less moral intrusion. Dr Keating provides an historical and critical introduction, a glossary of slang, a bibliography, and notes. £1.60

Canadian Agents

General Publishing Co. Ltd, 30 Lesmill Road, Don Mills, Ontario
