An Introduction to English Runes

R. I. PAGE

A general account of English runes and the methods used to examine them, including their distribution, a discussion of the variant types of Anglo-Saxon runic characters, runic poems and rune-names, runic coins, rune inscribed objects and runes in English literature. This is a very readable account of the subject, treated by a scholar whose learning and fondness for his subject are apparent in the most pleasant way - he is interesting and never pedantic.

The Revels Plays

The Tragedy of Master Arden of Faversham

Edited by M. L. WINE

This will become the standard edition of a play which has largely been the quarry of authorship seekers; the introduction demonstrates that Shakespeare's claim to authorship is still worthy of serious attention.

Shakespeare the Dramatist

UNA ELLIS FERMOR

Edited by PROFESSOR KENNETH MUIR

When Professor Ellis-Fermor died in 1958, she left behind her some uncollected essays and part of a book on Shakespeare. The present volume includes some chapters of the unfinished work and three other articles on Shakespeare. The material has been edited by Professor Kenneth Muir, who has provided a brief appreciation of Una Ellis-Fermor as a critic, and a list of her publications.

'Reading this book brings one again into contact with a mind of unusual imaginative assurance, linked with great critical shrewdness, and a wide acquaintance with modern work' Modern Language Review

Dostoevsky and Dickens

A Study of Literary Influence

N. M. LARY

Many of Dickens's readers have recognized that his achievement needs to be compared with Dostoevsky's and they have suspected or assumed an influence. N. M. Lary shows what the influence really was, and leads us on to a new understanding of Dostoevsky's vision and meaning, and of the society in which he wrote. £ 2.95

The Ascendancy of Taste

The Achievement of Joseph and Thomas Warton

JOAN PITTOCK

Explores the distinctive part played by the concept of taste as it dominated the eighteenth century. The Scotsman commented: 'No-one who professes an interest in eighteenth-century literature or in the Romantics can afford to ignore this fascinating blend of literary history, cultural history and literary criticism'. £ 4.00

Henry Fielding and the Augustan Ideal Under Stress

C. J. RAWSON

Focuses upon the various disruptive forces in the literary culture of the Augustan period - upon 'Nature's Dance of Death'. The discussion centres on aspects of Fielding's writing in relation to Augustan culture and civilization. Professor Rawson also looks at the crises in stylistic 'urbanity' and the 'mock-herioc' styles of this historically and artistically fascinating period. £ 4.50
