

The New Oxford Book of English Verse 1250-1950

Chosen and edited by Helen Gardner

'Whilst this is a personal and didactic anthology, it is also by far the most balanced and most wide-ranging we have, offering superlative value to almost every taste.' — The Times. 'An excellent job.' — W. H. AUDEN in The Observer. £3.25

The Complete Poetical Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley

Volume I, 1802-1813

Edited by Neville Rogers

Shelley was concerned about his text, but lacked the time, temperament, and technique for transmitting it properly. Neville Rogers's new edition, based on twenty years' study of the manuscripts, provides a radically revised and augmented text. This volume, the first of four, covers Shelley's Godwinian phase, culminating with Queen Mab. Frontispiece £5

The Journal of Sir Walter Scott

Edited by W. E. K. Anderson

Scott's Journal is the day-by-day account of his last six years, years of financial ruin, bereavement, and ill health, through which he struggled to pay off his vast debts. This edition supplies a new, complete text of the work that many agree is his finest and most enduring. 4 plates 3 maps £12.50

Sincerity and Authenticity

Lionel Trilling

'Like all good critics, Lionel Trilling is both predictable and unpredictable. All his criticism bears the stamp of contemporary concern and of a gifted, individual mind . . . Sincerity and Authenticity is no exception, and is full of ideas, insights, and surprises.' — LAURENCE LERNER in the New Statesman £3

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

NEW FROM METHUEN

The Air of Reality

New Essays on Henry James

Edited by JOHN GOODE

There is a new generation of critics with a particular interest in Henry James, and it is the intention of this collection of original essays to give a representative sample of its flavour. The book offers a fresh confrontation with the problems posed by this complex writer, and provides a challenge to the complacency of literary criticism at a time when its credibility is deservedly low.

£4.85

John Donne

Essays in Celebration

Edited by A. J. SMITH

A collection which celebrates the four-hundredth anniversary of Donne's birth with sixteen essays from various hands. These discuss his reputation, the circulation of his poems in manuscript, his use of rhetoric, many different aspects of his verse, the influence of Machiavelli, and several other topics. Together they reflect the great variety of scholarship in Donne studies and form a valuable conspectus of recent work.

£6.00

Grub Street

Studies in a Subculture

PAT ROGERS

'Dr. Rogers is a good critic, and his readings of individual passages are most impressive . . . ' Denis Donoghue, Spectator ' . . . fascinating and absorbing . . . Certainly it is a book which one would like to recommend unreservedly to lovers of either literature or of London, or, as in my own case, of both.' Encounter

£5.50

Restoration Literature

Critical Approaches

Edited by HAROLD LOVE

Critics from Dr. Johnson to L. C. Knights have attacked Restoration literature for its coarseness and moral aimlessness. This collection of original essays offers a vigorous defence and revaluation of the period.

£3.50

Edwardian Occasions

Essays on English Writing in the Early Twentieth Century

SAMUEL HYNES

The significant changes in English life and thought that took place in the Edwardian period had a profound effect upon the literature of the time. This collection of essays discusses 'Edwardian' as a literary term and goes on to consider the many writers and literary problems of the period, including Wells, Shaw, Forster, Ezra Pound, Conrad and Ford Madox Ford. Together the essays convey a vivid impression of the whole English literary scene in the early years of this century. £3.00

On Realism

J. P. STERN

Realism is one of the central questions in literature, especially modern literature. This comprehensive introduction explores the many aspects and forms of realism, and takes into account the relevance of disciplines such as philosophy and politics to this complex area of discussion. Concepts of Literature Series £2.50 announcing a new series

The Routledge Critics Series

GENERAL EDITOR: B. C. SOUTHAM

The Routledge Critics Series will provide a representative selection from the work of the most important British and American literary critics. The extracts in each volume will be headed by a considerable introduction to the critic and his work, to the age in which he was writing — and to the influence and tradition to which his criticism has given rise. The first book is:

Swinburne as Critic

Edited by CLYDE K. HYDER £5.00

Canadian Agents

General Publishing Co. Ltd., 30 Lesmill Road, Don Mills, Ontario

ROUTLEDGE

London and Boston