Heart of Darkness

Joseph Conrad

edited by D.C.R.A. Goonetilleke

"In the light of Chinua Achebe's characterization of Conrad as 'a bloody racist' and Heart of Darkness as a work which 'depersonalizes a portion of the human race,' ... Goonetilleke provides a rich, contextual background, embracing literature, biography, history, and geopolitics, that will help readers evaluate this controversial novella. Highly recommended."

Concert of Voices

An Anthology of World Writing in English

edited by Victor J. Ramraj

"a rich range of authors, representing a wide range of issues; this is an important and worthwhile project."

Shalini Puri, University of Pittsburgh

Concert of Voices provides an alternative text, combining poetry with fiction and essays in a wide-ranging anthology. Included are a number of established writers, who despite their great reputations, rarely find their way onto English Department reading lists (such as Wole Soyinka and Derek Walcott). Most selections, however, are by a wide range of much less established authors. The editor has provided a general introduction, a brief biographical note on each author, and brief explanatory notes where necessary.

Postcolonial Perspective: Children's and Young Adult Literature

ARIEL invites submissions for a special number (Volume 27, Number 1, January 1997) devoted to postcolonial perspectives on children's literature and young adult literature. Essays may be on any aspect of postcolonialism as it manifests itself in literature for children and young adults. The co-editors of this issue are Meena Khorana (Coppin State University) and Roderick McGillis (University of Calgary; e-mail: rmcgilli@acs.ucalgary.ca)

Please send contributions before 1 August 1996 to ARIEL, Department of English, The University of Calgary, Calgary NW, Alberta, Canada T2N 1N4.

Writing the New South Africa

The January 1996 number of ARIEL is devoted to new directions in South African literature. It includes articles on culture and the new South Africa, literature and civil society, women's autobiographies, exotic patriarchy in Afrikaans writing, Nadine Gordimer's cross-racial couples, atavism and European history of Africa, Zoë Wicomb's exile and homecoming, liberatory pedagogy, and South African Poetry (1990-95).

The cost of this issue, co-edited by Cherry Clayton (University of Guelph) is $12.00.
