

Contemporary Criticism

Edited by MALCOLM BRADBURY and DAVID PALMER

Stratford-Upon-Avon Studies 12

These essays examine the state and function of contemporary criticism of literature, and expound, defend and attack the many possible critical procedures now prevalent and the theories underlying them. These essays, through the exposition and exemplification of new techniques, approaches and theories provide the practical means for a closer, deeper and perhaps potentially more useful understanding of literature.

Cloth £2.25 net U.K.

Paper 90p net U.K.

Canadian edition published by The Macmillan Company Ltd

The Visual Imagination of D. H. Lawrence

KEITH ALLDRITT

This book examines D. H. Lawrence's novels from a new perspective. It argues that Lawrence's lifelong interest in painting and his experiences as a painter had considerable effect upon his prose style. Discussing each of Lawrence's novels in turn, Mr Alldritt traces the evolution of Lawrence's visual writing.

£3 net U.K.

Canadian edition published by The Macmillan Company Ltd

The Visionary Landscape

A Study in Medieval Allegory

PAUL PIEHLER

This book approaches the allegorical visions of the Middle Ages in two important ways. It attempts an elucidation of medieval allegory in terms of its literary antecedents—the ancient myths out of which it developed its central imagery, and the classical dialogue which contributed the basis of its intellectual structure. At the same time it seeks to interpret allegory as a profound exploration of the human psyche, sustained and developed for over a thousand years.

£2.75 net U.K.

Canadian edition published by The Macmillan Company Ltd

Medieval English Lyrics

Edited by THEODORE SILVERSTEIN

York Medieval Texts

Professor Silverstein here presents 144 of the best, though often less well known, examples of lyric poetry. In addition to an introduction on the nature of the lyric, the volume contains introductory notes at the head of each poem, full textual notes, explanatory footnotes and a comprehensive glossary keyed to the text. In nearly every case the text has been edited from a direct examination of all manuscript versions and has been compared with all major editions.

Cloth £1.75 net U.K.

Paper 85p net U.K.

Canadian edition published by McGill-Queens University Press

Edward Arnold

41 Maddox Street, London W1R 0AN

Modern Poetry in Translation

Editors TED HUGHES AND DANIEL WEISSBORT

MPT 9 (current issue) includes:

Yevgeny Zamyatin, A Fisher of Men, the first publication in English of this short story by the author of the pre-Orwellian novel We;
Ivan Drach, translations by Alan Sillitoe of this striking Ukrainian poet;
Nichita Stanescu, Eleven Elegies, a remarkable sequence of metaphysical poems by a young Rumanian poet . . .

MPT 10 (April):

An anthology of modern Turkish poetry assembled by Taner Baybars

In preparation: Hungarian issue, with Ted Hughes' translations of Janos Pilinszky; Mexican, being assembled with the help of Octavio Paz; Portuguese/Brazilian, guest-edited by Helder Macedo and Jean Franco, Professor of Latin American Literature at Essex University . . .

Annual Subscription Rates (4 issues) . £2 (6 Dollars)

Single Copies . 50p

Modern Poetry in Translation Ltd

10 Compayne Gardens, London NW6 3DH

Charlotte Brontë

FIVE NOVELETTES

Transcribed from the original manuscripts and edited by Winifred Gérin

Publication June 1971 £5.50 $13.25

Most of them left untitled by their author, these five novelettes — now known under the titles of Passing Events, Julia, Mina Laury, Henry Hastings and Caroline Vernon — were all written by Charlotte Brontë in her early twenties. Only Mina Laury (in a heavily edited form) has ever been published complete before.

Technically, none of these works can really be reckoned as belonging to Charlotte Brontë's juvenilia, but their emergence from, and continued commitment with, the subjects of her childhood writings, connect them indissolubly with her earliest work. Fore-shadowing the themes and characters of her mature novels, they also show the author of Jane Eyre and Villette in the process of becoming the Currer Bell who took the town by storm overnight with her first published work. Their interest, therefore, is unique, and affords an unparalleled insight into the processes of artistic creation through which an author's first shapeless idea passes before assuming a definitive form.

The almost trance-like state in which Charlotte Brontë wrote, her idiosyncrasies of spelling, capitalization, paragraphing and punctuation, are all so revealing that every effort has been made to produce this edition of the novelettes in the form in which they were actually written. For the sake of readability, however, some additional punctuation has had to be incorporated; this, although not obtrusive, can be easily identified.

Illustrated with a frontispiece and endpapers in full colour and with eight monochrome plates — all, in the main, by either Charlotte or Branwell Brontë. Bound in full buckram, contained in a slip case.

Charles Dickens

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Now available £5.25 $12.60

A facsimile of the original manuscript with a transcript of the text of the first edition and with reproductions of John Leech's original illustrations. Introduction by Monica Dickens: Preface by Frederick B. Adams Jr.

THE FOLIO PRESS
6 Stratford Place, London WIN 0BH

For 20th May
Publication

*Three books of special interest in our spring
programme*

Shakespeare, Spenser, Donne

FRANK KERMODE Professor of Modern English, University College London. This book represents one man's persistent effort to understand English poetry in its greatest years. In this important collection of essays Frank Kermode discusses some of the central works and areas of literature in this great period. The essays include discussions of Shakespeare, Spenser and Donne and are prefaced by a statement of the critic's own approach. £1.50

Rupert Brooke: A Reappraisal and Selection

Edited by TIMOTHY ROGERS This is a selection of the finest of Rupert Brooke's writing in poetry and prose (including travel, politics, philosophy, criticism and drama) some of which has never before been published. In his introduction Timothy Rogers presents the facts of Brooke's life accurately and with understanding. £2.25 paperback 50p

American Literature 1919–1932

A Comparative History

JOHN McCORMICK Professor and Chairman, Department of Comparative Literature, Rutgers University, New York. Should become a standard introduction to the literature and cultural climate of the period. This book is a brilliant, succinct and penetrating history of the most important creative years of American literature, which includes such names as Ezra Pound, T. S. Eliot, Hemingway, Scott Fitzgerald, William Faulkner. £2.25 paperback 60p

ROUTLEDGE & KEGAN PAUL

Canadian Agents

General Publishing Co. Ltd., 30 Lesmill Road, Don Mills, Ontario
