

“Is this what dying is”

Is this what dying is
an announcement
I feel no different

that these words
should condemn me

I seem unchanged
the room looks the same the house has not halved
or fallen
the walls stand
my brass bed gleams
and is cold to the touch and still you say

I am dying

Mary Humphrey Baldrige