

Notes on Contributors

JOHN DITSKY is the author of two critical volumes and several volumes of poetry, including Scar Tissue and Friend and Lover. He teaches at the University of Windsor and is Poetry Editor of the University of Windsor Review.

STEPHEN SLEMON did his doctoral studies at the University of Queensland. He teaches at the University of Alberta.

WALTER McDONALD is director of creative writing at Texas Tech University. His book The Flying Dutchman won the University of Cincinnati's 1987 George Elliston Poetry prize and is forthcoming from Ohio State University Press.

WILSON HARRIS is the distinguished Caribbean novelist and Third-World philosopher.

BARBARA L. ESTRIN is Professor of English at Stonehill College and author of The Raven and the Lark: Lost Children in Literature of the English Renaissance.

FAKRUL ALAM has published essays on Defoe, Melville, Lawrence and Bellow. He did his graduate studies at the University of British Columbia and is an Associate Professor at the University of Dhaka.

ANDREW HASSAM is a University of Wales Fellow at St. David's University College, Lampeter. His work has appeared in English Literature in Transition, Prose Studies and elsewhere.

HUGH UNDERHILL was educated in England, and taught there and in Hong Kong, and now teaches at La Trobe University, Melbourne. Formerly an editor of Helix, now of Meridian, he has published poems and critical articles widely.

CHARLES EDWARD EATON has published poetry and prose in such journals as The Atlantic Monthly, The Kenyon Review, and The Malahat Review. His New and Selected Poems: 1942-1987 was published by Cornwall Books in 1987, and a companion volume, New and Selected Stories: 1959-1989, is forthcoming.